

A Day in the Life

Of Your United Way Donation

- 12:00 a.m. The Homeless Intervention Task Force (HITF), a task force partner of United Way of North Rock County, conducts a homeless count to determine the scope of the needs in our community.
- 1:00 a.m. A Footville family who lost everything in a house fire receives shelter, food, clothing, and most importantly, hope from the American Red Cross.
- 2:00 a.m. Arturo and Elena are able to resolve a conflict without violence because of the skills they learned through the Hispanic Outreach Program offered by Catholic Charities.
- 3:00 a.m. An abused mom with three young children finds refuge at the shelter provided by the YWCA's Alternatives to Violence program.
- 4:00 a.m. Ronnie, an 18-year old Edgerton man with developmental disabilities, replays in his dreams the fun day he had swimming and fishing at Wisconsin Badger Camp.
- 5:00 a.m. John, a working, single father of two young children, prepares breakfast for his kids before dropping them at the day care he found through Child Care Resource and Referral of South Central Wisconsin.
- 6:00 a.m. Nancy, a 30-year old Milton woman with epilepsy, straightens her jacket as she leaves for the job she was able to keep with the help of the Epilepsy Foundation of Southern Wisconsin.
- 7:00 a.m. George smiles as he brushes the teeth he was able to keep because of free dental treatment he received at Healthnet of Janesville's Dental Clinic.
- 8:00 a.m. To prepare her for seeking a job, Keiko practices reading in English with her tutor at Janesville Literacy Council.
- 9:00 a.m. A United Way employee meets with YES in Rock County, learning how United Way can coordinate with the task force to address the social and emotional needs of area children.
- 10:00 a.m. Lynn, an unemployed Milton mother of two, calls United Way's First Call, a free and confidential information and referral service, for information on subsidized low cost summer social and recreational activities for her children.
- 11:00 a.m. United Way's Volunteer Network assigns volunteers from M&I Bank to wash coats for Community Action's AWARE program to give away in the Koats for Kids program in Evansville.

United Way of North Rock County