

Living United Means...

Building and Sustaining Strong Families and Communities

Everyone needs a little time off to recharge their energy reserves, but for Mike and Melody Havron of Footville, such time was hard to find. They are the parents of a two-year old boy with Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and a 14-month old daughter. The demands of the special needs child and his younger sibling made it difficult for them to focus on their marriage.

Enter Family Respite Care Services, a United Way of North Rock County partner agency. Their Respite program found a trustworthy child-care provider who could handle the kids. The young couple were then able to enjoy a night out, with dinner, a movie and an overnight stay at a local hotel. Mike and Melody said that the weekend gave them a new energy to focus on their marriage and children.
